GSAS Tuition Incentive Program (TIP)— Award Conditions and Application Procedures

TIP Award Conditions

- Students receiving external awards of $13,000 or more for the academic year from recognized, academic sources of funding outside of the University can apply for matching tuition points up to the amount of their outside award. For example, if a student is receiving $14,000 from a foundation, she or he can apply for up to $14,000 in tuition from the Graduate School. The maximum award amount is tuition for GSAS courses in which the student has registered. Students are fully responsible for paying all registration, student services, and student health insurance fees.
- Students receiving external awards of less than $13,000 can apply for matching tuition points up to 50 percent of the amount of the outside award. For example, a student receiving $9,000 from a foundation can apply for up to $4,500 in tuition from the Graduate School.
- TIP dissertation awards are for Ph.D. students receiving external awards in support of their dissertation research. If the amount of the external award is at least the amount of the Graduate School's base stipend ($20,000 in 2006-07), a student will receive a TIP award to cover the cost of maintenance of matriculation, registration and services fees and the premiums on NYU comprehensive student health insurance (if such coverage is taken by the student).
- External awards eligible to be matched through TIP must be from recognized, academic sources of funding outside the University. Awards that are not eligible for matching include need-based financial aid awards, loans, employer tuition remission plans, travel awards, family support, and any grants, fellowships, training programs or other types of awards that include tuition remission, health insurance or book allowances as an allowable cost.
- External awards that cover a 12-month period are prorated to the nine-month academic year amount before determining the match.
- The Graduate School reserves the right to review each TIP application to determine whether it properly meets the program's terms and conditions. Applicants should review the list of participating departments to see if they are eligible to apply for TIP. Eligibility is contingent upon the availability of funds within the University.

TIP Eligibility

- Students must be enrolled in a Ph.D., master's or certificate program in an eligible program in GSAS. A list of participating programs is shown on the next page. (Please note: students funded with a tuition award through the MacCracken program should not apply for TIP.)
- Students must be registered for at least six points per semester. Students applying for TIP dissertation awards must be registered for maintenance of matriculation.

- Students are only eligible to apply for tuition points that meet (and do not exceed) the requirements of their degree program as published in the GSAS Bulletin.
- After completing two semesters of registration in GSAS, students will be evaluated on their academic performance as a condition of receiving an award. They must have a minimum grade point average of 3.0; meet GSAS and departmental standards of academic progress; and meet the GSAS policy requirements regarding time to degree.

TIP Application Procedures

- Applications must be received in Graduate Enrollment Services by August 30 of the award year.
- Application requests must include written documentation from the awarding agency of the terms and conditions of the external award.
- Documentation of receipt of external funds must occur before tuition points will be credited to a student's account. This may occur in one of two ways. The student may show a check (original or photocopy), payable to the student and drawn on the agency's account, to a representative in Graduate Enrollment Services. Alternatively, the student may have the check made payable to NYU and credited to their tuition account. A refund can be requested after GSAS credits the tuition points.
- You will be notified by e-mail or regular mail of the TIP award decision. Please allow three to four weeks.
